Germany and Lebanon are quite different countries. But no matter where you live, we have a lot of common problems coming up. It's also up to you if you just want to watch or if you want to actively change things in a positive way. We want to find ways together what everyone can do and how we can get active.

The focus of this week is on getting to know each other, cultural learning and networking and the topic of sustainability. We would have a look on best practice examples for ideas for a sustainable and livable environment. The week includes workshops and excursions. The development of a project should be carried out jointly by the participants.

You will be encouraged to gain insights into the culture and everyday life of the partner country. You should be open minded and you get new and creative ideas for sustainable development in your community.

Of course, we will have also some sightseeing and lots of fun...
